

Euclid's Elements, Book II

Papyrus Oxyrhynchus I 29 - Egypt, c. 75-125 AD

One of the oldest surviving fragments of Euclid's Elements, found at Oxyrhynchus in Egypt. The diagram illustrates Proposition 5 of Book II, a geometric statement about rectangles and squares that is equivalent to an algebraic identity.